To support national training, technical assistance, and resource centers to ensure that all individuals with significant disabilities affecting communication have access to the augmentative and alternative communication devices, services, and supports the individuals need to interact with others, in order to learn, work, socialize, and take advantage of all aspects of society in the United States.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

JUNE 13, 2019

Mr. CASEY (for himself, Ms. HASSAN, and Mr. LEAHY) introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions

A BILL

To support national training, technical assistance, and resource centers to ensure that all individuals with significant disabilities affecting communication have access to the augmentative and alternative communication devices, services, and supports the individuals need to interact with others, in order to learn, work, socialize, and take advantage of all aspects of society in the United States.

- 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
- 2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2 This Act may be cited as the “Access to Free Speech
3 for All Act” or the “AFSFA Act”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

5 Congress makes the following findings:

6 (1) For individuals with disabilities, the lack of 7 the ability to effectively communicate is a high pre-8 dictor of poor school and post-school outcomes and 9 creates a serious risk for abuse and neglect.

10 (2) No student is too severely disabled to ben-
11 efit from communication devices, services, and other 12 supports. Students with the most significant cog-
13 nitive and sensory disabilities can learn to use sym-
14 bolic, augmentative, or alternative communication
15 devices, services, or supports in 6 months or less.

16 (3) Students with significant disabilities affect-17 ing communication too often enter school without 18 communication systems that allow for participation
19 in typical curricular activities and without the tools
20 necessary for academic instruction and participation.

21 (4) National professional organizations have 22 identified lack of training in augmentative and alter-
23 native communication devices, services, and supports
24 and assistive technology for students with low-inci-
25 dence disabilities as one of the greatest challenges to

1 providing supports to students with significant dis-
2 abilities affecting communication.

3 (5) Title II of the Americans with Disabilities
4 Act of 1990 (including its implementing regulations)
5 requires local educational agencies to ensure that 6 communication with students with hearing, vision, or 7 speech disabilities is as effective as communication
8 with students without disabilities. To ensure this ef-
9 fective communication, schools must provide auxil-
10 iary aids and services where necessary to provide ef-
11 fective communication.

12 (6) Communication is both a basic human need 13 and right of all human beings. For individuals with-14 out access to the means for meaningful communica-
15 tion, this right is denied.

16 (7) The leadership of individuals with signifi-
17 cant disabilities affecting communication is essential
18 to achieving solutions and obtaining supports that 19 improve, for such individuals, communication access
20 and participation in the decisions most impacting
21 their lives.

22 SEC. 3. PURPOSE.

23 The purpose of this Act is to provide for comprehen-
24 sive training, technical assistance, and resource centers on

1 augmentative and alternative communication devices, serv-
2 ices, and supports that—

3 (1) are created and operate in order to raise ex-
4 pectations and improve awareness of the need for ef-
5 fective augmentative and alternative communication
6 devices, services, and supports for individuals with 7 significant disabilities affecting communication;

8 (2) identify, document, and disseminate infor-
9 mation regarding best and promising practices (in 10 existence on the date of identification of the prac-11 tices), from research carried out in a manner that 12 includes individuals with significant disabilities af-
13 ffecting communication and their families at every 14 point in the research process, to increase commu-
15 nication access, literacy, and effective communica-
16 tion for individuals with significant disabilities af-
17 ffecting communication;

18 (3) partner with assistive technology or engi-
19 neering programs in institutions of higher education
20 to conduct research in and development of commu-
21 nication options for individuals with significant dis-
22 abilities affecting communication;

23 (4) increase the skills of speech-language pa-
24 thologists, special educators, early intervention spe-25 cialists, occupational therapists, administrators, and related services personnel, to evaluate and provide communication services, and other supports to individuals with significant disabilities affecting communication to enable those individuals to obtain increased or improved—

(A) participation in elementary, secondary, and postsecondary education;

(B) academic skills including literacy and math skills;

(C) employment and career outcomes; and

(D) self-advocacy and self-determination skills; and

(5) increase the ability of individuals with significant disabilities affecting communication to communicate, through leadership training for individuals who use augmentative or alternative communication devices, services, or supports, their families, and persons who provide devices, services, and other supports to such individuals, on topics related to self-determination, self-advocacy, and person-centered planning.
